

Remembrance Day Poetry

I am a soldier

I wonder how my life will change

I see the future that awaits my presence

I want life to be full of peace and equality

I am a soldier

I pretend my life isn't all about war and passings

I feel the courage of my relatives that fought for their lives

I touch the ground and feel the sky i feel those who lost their lives

I worry i will lose time with those who fly

I cry the bullets out of friends who die

I am a soldier

I understand the pain and dedication to life

I say i see the future of good times and rough times

I dream for people to accept and see peace and equality in everyones dreams

I try to save lives with hope and try to fight the fear and pain

I hope to have respectful justice and ignore the rough past

I am a soldier
