

I will remember

100 years I will remember
Stand still and quiet in the month of November
For the young, the brave and the few
Who fought and died for me and you

I remember to live with love in my heart
For the blood and dirt was only the start
I can only repay the ones who stayed
By wearing my poppy on Remembrance day

The biggest sweet treasure for me and for you
Is the freedom they won and the history made new I'll wear that poppy as red as can be
And be proud to show who fought for me

Shall I never forget their whistles and shouts
Their songs and laughter all about
Shall I never forget the peace declared
From the ones who braved and dared

Do not forget when they took up their place
Between the trenches with no room for space
Lives were shattered in a time of despair
When a coppery tang filled the air

Sacrifices were made
No room to be afraid
The soldiers went down one by one
All to make sure our country won

This is for the ones who stand tall
For me, and her, no wait, for all
Our flag does not fly from the wind that moves it
It flies with the breaths of the soldiers who died for it

They may be gone but please don't cry
For their death is not the last goodbye
Tell their stories in much to say
That we'll meet them again some other day
